

What Makes Music Beautiful?

Wednesdays, May 2, 9, and 16

1:30 to 4:30 pm

Maravilla Clubhouse

5486 Calle Real

All of us have been deeply moved by music at one time or another. You probably have been moved by different types of music and in different ways. You might even remember the specific time and place for this experience.

In this seminar, Professor Katz will take a semi-objective approach to figuring why some pieces of music seem especially emotionally powerful.

For those electing to participate in this seminar we ask you to provide, at registration, the name of a piece that is meaningful to you, brings tears to your eyes or lumps in your throat. Please limit your choice to a classical work (including opera).

Professor Katz will then select as many pieces as time permits. He will present some historical context and approaches to musical substance in an effort to explain (but not demystify!) these experiences. He hopes to address works from different time periods and different styles. He would like to see included at least one 20th Century piece in hopes of inciting controversy!

Derek Katz is an Associate Professor of Musicology at UCSB, specializing in Czech music, opera; nationalism and modernism.

Please understand the room capacity at Maravilla is 60 persons so the deadline will be honored.
